Mayor Strong to Perform the Civil Marriage Ceremony.

Since the arrival in New York of the Marquis de Castellane preparations for the approaching nuptials of Miss Anna Gould and the young Count de Castellane have been going forward with renewed activity, and social society is eagerly discussing every detail of what promises to be a grand affair.

COUNT DE CASTELLANE'S CREST.

Primary festivities begin to-night, when the Count de Castellane will give his farewell bachelor dinner to his friends at the Waldorf, at which invited guests will number about thirty. They will include his brother, the younger Count de Castellane, George Gould and Howard Gould, his prospective brothers-in-law, Messrs. Lusk, and del Drago, Count Hadik and Count Sierstorff, Richard Peters, Brookholtz, Cutting, W. Cutting, Jr., Duncan Cameron, Raoul Duval and a dozen or more girl-edged young men.

The spread will be a marvel of gastronomic art, it is said, and the host will present each guest with a handsome souvenir scarf.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Jay Gould will give a dinner at their house to a large company, when they will introduce the Marquis and Marquise de Castellane to their friends, and on Saturday night, Miss Anna Gould will entertain the young ladies who will act as bridesmaids, Misses Helen Miller Gould, Adelaide Montgomery, Kittle Cameron and Beatrice Richardson.

Arrangements for the double marriage ceremony have been completed. The civil ceremony will take place at the home of George J. Gould on Saturday evening, when Mayor Strong will officiate.

plate, and the only guests outside of the members of the two families will be Frederic H. Coudert and ex-Judge John R. Dillon, who will attend in their legal capacity, representing respectively the capacity of De Castellane and the more modern but wealthier house of Gould.

It is settled that the religious ceremony will be performed at high noon on the following Monday at the house of the Archbishop of New York. The fact that the wedding will be celebrated according to the Roman Catholic form has given rise to a rumor that Miss Gould intends to renounce the Protestant faith in which she has been brought up and adopt the religion of her husband. This, however, is denied both by her brother George and the young lady herself.

"All our family are Protestants," she said, "and my sister Helen is a Presbyterian, and my sister-in-law, Mrs. Gould, is an Episcopalian. I have been a member of the Episcopal Church since I was a child, and I have no intention of leaving it. Although Count de Castellane is a Roman Catholic, he has never asked me on the subject or asked me to change my faith. He is content to leave me entirely to my own religion in the matter."

With the exception of the costly lace bridal veil presented to her by the Marquis de Castellane, Miss Anna Gould has not yet received any wedding presents. It is said there will be an avalanche of them. The gift of the Marquis alone is valued at $10,000. The Count de Castellane already adorns the covers of many jewelry cases and accessories to possessions of the future Countess, and it is also embossed on all the new trunks, which she will take with her when she goes to Europe with her husband. Every article of her wardrobe is embroidered with a coronet. It is said.

It is reported that about 300 invitations to the wedding will be issued, and that Mrs. George J. Gould has received requests for wedding cards from many of her fashionable friends who have never met her.

The bridal couple intend to sail for Europe on March 6.

Down in one of the front rows at Hoyt's Theatre last evening was a little group which eventually claimed more attention from the audience than the play of "The Foundling."

It was made up of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould, Mrs. Kingston and the Marquis de Castellane and his son, the Count. When the people recognized them they became the centre of observation. During one of the acts the Marquis, accompanied by the Count and George Gould, went out to see a man.

They found him, it is said, in the cafe of the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

The Count Jean de Castellane called on his parents and Miss Anna Gould today at 11 o'clock, and took luncheon with them. Mrs. L. Townsend Burden also luncheon with the party at George Gould's residence.

HER HUSBAND'S WILL STOLEN.

Mrs. Edward S. Hall Robbed of Her Claim to an Estate. Mrs. Julia E. Hall, widow of Edward S. Hall, who for many years was private secretary for A. T. Stewart, was complainant at Yorkville Police Court today against William Ball, twenty-one years of age, of 305 West Sixty-seventh street, whom she charged with having stolen her husband's will. Mrs. Hall is a good-looking middle-aged woman, and lives at 103 West Seventy-third street. She occupies the entire house.

Until about a week ago Ball was assistant furnaceman. On Sunday Mrs. Hall left the house for a few hours. On her return she discovered that her husband's will, in which she was mentioned as chief beneficiary, had been stolen, together with letters, an album, some books and two bottles of Spanish wine. Ball, when spoken to this morning by Mrs. Hall, begged for clemency, saying he belonged to an honorable family in Germany, and had a brother in the German army. Justice Ryan committed him for further examination.

WILL HELP HIM OUT.

Mrs. Norton Will Not Prosecute Her Husband for Bigamy.

Mrs. Jennie Norton, of Bridgeport, Conn., who called at the Towns Court yesterday and asked Justice Voorhis to take a complaint of bigamy against her husband, Jeremiah Norton, who is confined at the Tombs, visited him today in his cell. Mrs. Norton agreed not to press the bigamy complaint, but instead do so to help her husband in his trouble.

Norton is awaiting trial on a charge of stealing silverware from Dr. Friedenberg, of 60 East Sixty-first street, by whom he was formerly employed. Eliza Kato, whom Norton met a year ago in White Plains, was employed as a servant in the same house. The two lived together as man and wife. Mrs. Norton had Norton arrested for abandonment, and when he denied that Miss Kane was his wife she had him arrested, giving evidence that he had stolen property in his possession.

Whiskey Made Her Ill. Miss Emma Miller, twenty years old, of West Thirty-seventh street, was arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court today on a charge of intoxication. She said that she was a typewriter and a member of the King's Daughters. She had just left St. John's Hospital in Brooklyn yesterday, and went into a Ninth Avenue saloon in this city to get some whiskey for medical use. Some men in the saloon insisted on her drinking with them. She took enough whiskey to make her ill, and then was arrested. She was still quite ill today. She was discharged.

TOO MUCH MOTHER-IN-LAW.

In an argument before Judge Pryor on an application for alimony for Mrs. Clara L. Von Bloem, pending trial for a separation from Paul H. Von Bloem, School Commissioner Charles Strauss said today that counsel on both sides had made every possible effort to bring about a reconciliation.

The parties to the case are members of good families and of unusual refinement and education. Mr. Von Bloem was graduated from a leading German university. "Are you sure all acts of diplomacy have been tried to bring these young people together?" asked Judge Pryor. "I have found after forty-five years' experience the sole means of reconciliation is to let the young man jump in the river and live with the defendant," said Attorney Horwitz.

Mrs. Von Bloem is at present living with her mother at 139 West Eighty-first street. Judge Pryor allowed Mrs. Von Bloem $50 counsel fee and $25 a week alimony.
